97.
Mrs Wm. J. Howard

INDEX

TO THE

SECOND VOLUME

OF THE

SOUTHERN QUARTERLY REVIEW.

A.

Advantages of Free Institutions, 530.
Ahasuerus, a Poem, by a Virginian, 312—21; Fairyism, as an accessory to modern poetry, a desideratum, 314; the wandering Jew in Croly's Salathiel, 318.
Anatomical differences between the negro and other races, 327.
Ancient Egyptians—Manners, Customs, &c., 5—55: the most remarkable of all nations, 5; explanation of the hieroglyphics on the Rosetta stone, 7; Painting and Sculpture, 9; early history of Egypt from the monuments, 10; physical constitution of the Egyptians, 13; their physiognomy, 17; dress, 19; arts, 22; dwellings, 24; gardens, 28; furniture, 31; entertainments, 32; mummy introduced at their festivals, 36; marriages, 37; treatment of the dead, 38; funerals, 40; sepulchral monuments, 47; coined money not employed, 52; supposed representation of Joseph and his brethren, 53.
Aristotle and Plato contrasted, 500.
Attic Tragedy, 491.

B.

Baird's Northern Europe, 518—25.
Bible Biography, by Robt. Sears, 532.
Bolingbroke—his life, character, writings, and genius, 87—106: his talents, 88; moral character, 89; oratory, 91; connection with the Jacobite party, 93; flight to France, 94; dismissal from his office as Secretary to the Pretender, 95; return to England thro' the intrigues of the Duchess of Kendall, 96: Return to France, 97; retirement into the country in England, 99; friendship with Pope, 100; domestic life, 101; writings, 101; first philosophy, 105.
British Wars, cost of, 520.
Brooks' Polyglott Amusements, 82.
Bulwer's Zanoni, 177—187: Bulwer too analytical as a novelist, 179; his works not rightly appreciated, 180; defects of Zanoni, 181; significance and aim of, 184; versatility of Bulwer's talents, 185; tendency of his novels, 186.

C.

Cæsar's Writings, 515.

280397

Camp's Democracy, 388—404: no previous work of the kind, 390; certainty of political science, 393; Democratic liberty, 393: legitimacy, 394; subject of rights, 398; right of suffrage, 368; Monarchical government, 401; Democracy of Christianity, 403.

Canaan identified with the Ethiopian, 321—83: import of the word, 323; condemnation of Canaan to slavery, 325; enlargement of Japhet, 325; anatomical differences between the negro and other races, 327; the negro physically adapted to servitude, 320; a gainer by it, 335; mildness of his treatment, 336; condition of the operatives in England, 340; Sir C. Rowley's testimony in regard to slavery, 347; slaves protected from abuse in the United States, 349; influence of slavery on the Northern States, 350; instinctive attachment of the negro to his master, 353; Lord Dunmore's proclamation offering freedom to the slaves of Virginia, 356; favorable effects of slavery in the Revolutionary war, 359; slave labor in America the sinew of war, 360; repulse of Gen. Ross, 362; security of the South, 365; diseases of British operatives, 369; Canaan the property of Japhet, 370; European slavery, 373; Canaan's submission unconditional, 375; comparative population of the two races in the Southern States, 376; British in the war of 1812, 378; the Revolutionary war, 379.

Canning's Friend of Humanity translated into Latin verse, 78.

Cardinal Cheverus. See Cheverus.

Causes of difficulty in Rhode Island, 234.

Channing's Duty of the Free States, 130—77: Channing's literary character, 130; political views, 131; views on slavery, 139; slavery not prohibited by law, 142; not opposed to Christianity, 147; not a sin, 151; men not created equal, 157; Democracy too plebeian for Dr. Channing, 172; notions on Federal Government, 174; on war, 175; on Texas, ib.; on Mexican relations, ib.; difficulties with Great Britain, 176; the case of the Caroline, ib.; right of search, 177.

Chantrey and Thorvaldsen, 523.

Chapters on Church-Yards, by Mrs. Southey, 532.

Charter of Rhode Island, 233—246: Charter Party there, 248.

Cheverus, Cardinal, his life, by Dr. Dubourg, 265; appointment as Bishop of Boston, 267.

Chinese, 112—29: their language, 113; education, 115; literature, 117; history, 119; biography, 120; statistics, ib.; penal and civil codes, 121; drama, 122; translated plays, ibid; poetry, 123; without any oratory, 126; contracted compass of their literature, 127; prospects of the Chinese, 129.

Cicero and Demosthenes, 515.

Clay and Calhoun, 434: Clay a candidate of the Tariff party for the Presidency, 430.

Collections of the Georgia Historical Society, 534; Rhode Island Historical Society, 260.

Comedy, Greek, 493.

Commentaries on Equity Jurisprudence, by Judge Story, 416—22: importance of separating Equity practice from Common Law, 417; inconvenience of repeated editions of Law Books, 418; importance of Southern Law Schools, 419; bad effects of foreign education, 421.

Community of West Roxbury, 455.

Compromise Bill, 425.

Copenhagen, 522.

Correspondence, doctrine of, 469.

Cousin, the source of Prof. Whewell's Metaphysics, 203—212.

Creole Case, 55—72; statement of the case, 56; the law on the point, ib.; Mr. Webster's distinction between the demand of the criminal and the demand of indemnity, 62; removal of Mr. Bacon from the consulship at Nassau, 67; English inconsistency, 68; the nature of slavery, 70; note on the article, 275.

Cupid and Psyche: a Mythological Fable, from "the Golden Ass of Apulcius," by John Lyde Wilson, 273.

D.

Dana, Mrs. Poems, 536.

D'Arblay, Madame, Life and Letters of 270.

Democracy too plebeian for Dr. Channing, 172; Democracy, by Camp, see Camp's Democratic liberty, 393; Democracy of Christianity, 403.

Dial, a Magazine for Literature, Philosophy and Religion, see Transcendentalism.
Diary and Letters of Madame D'Arblay, 270.
Differences of Polity in the American Colonies before the Revolution, 233.
Difference of sex in the brain, 281.
Dorr and Gov. King, 253.
Dunlop's History of Fiction, 525—8.
Dunmore's (Lord) proclamation to the negroes of Virginia, 356.
Duty of the Free States. See Channing.

E.

Early History of Literature, 478—517. See Schlegel.
Earliest Roman Literature, 507.
Elizabeth, Queen, 293.
Equity Jurisprudence, 416. See Commentaries.
Era and Influence of the Homeric Poems, 489.
European Hospitals, 367. European Slavery, 373.
Examination of Mr. Walker's comparison of the heads of twins of different sexes, 281.

F.

Facts in Mesmerism, by Chauncey Hare Townsend, 272.
Forest Life, by the author of a New Home, 540.
Franklin's discovery of drawing lightning from the clouds anticipated, 207.
Final Causes, fallacy of, as a mode of reasoning, 227.
Foreign Education, bad effects of, 421.
Funerals of the Egyptians, 40; furniture of the same, 31.

G.

Gideon Giles, the Roper, 539.
Gov. Dorr and Gov. King, 253.
Government of Rhode Island declared by the Assembly to be democratical, 261.
Greek and Latin versification modern, 72—87; The Old Gentleman of Tobago, 73; Little Jack Horner, 74; The Man of Thessaly, ib.; Sing a Song for Sixpence, 75; Child of Earth, ibid.; The Rose, 76; The Glasses sparkle on the board, 77; Friend of Humanity, 78; Judy Callaghan, 80; Mr. Brooks' Polyglott Amusements, 82—7.
Greek Science, cause of error in, 208.
Greek Literature, 483—502; lyric poetry, 491; comedy, 493; historians, 495; orators, ib.; sophists, 497.
Griswold's Poets and Poetry of America, 268; his injustice to the Southern States, ibid.
Guizot's works on History, 404.

H.

Historical Collections of Rhode Island, 260.
History. See Chinese, Greek and Schlegel.
Holmes' Southern Farmer and Market Gardener, 275.
Hospitals, European, 367.

I.

Importance of the Nullification Ordinance, 424. See Tariff.
Importance of establishing Southern Law Schools, 419.
Impossibility of explaining the processes of the mind, 218.
Indebtedness of Prof. Whewell to V. Cousin, 203—212.
Individualization of Antiquity, 408.
Innate Ideas, 445.
Institution of Religion, 407; of marriage, 413.
Invasion of Texas by Mexico, 107.

J.

James' Morley Ernstein, 383—88; James' fecundity, 383; his female characters, 384; object of Morley Ernstein, 385; James compared with Bulwer, 387.
Jurisprudence of Rome, 410.

K.

Kendall, Duchess of, effects Bolingbroke's recal from exile, 96.

L.

Late Tariff. See Tariff.
Latin and Greek modern versification. See Greek.
Lee, Miss Mary E. Social Evenings, 531.
Lieber's Essays on property and labor, 528—31; political rights, 529; advantage of free institutions, 530.
Literature. See Chinese, Greek and Schlegel.
Literary character of Dr. Channing, 130.
Lord Bolingbroke. See Bolingbroke.
Lord Dunmore. See Dunmore.

M.

Marriage, 37, 299, 413.
Matrimonial Slavery, 305.
Mexican Relations, Channing's views in regard to, 175.
Mexico and Texas, 107—12; invasion of Texas by Mexico, 107; Texas ought to act only on the defensive, 110.
Modern Greek and Latin versification. See Greek.
Morals of Females, 289.
Morley Ernstein. See James.
Mott's Travels, 187—93.

N.

Necessity, universality, &c. incomprehensible terms, 220.
Nullification Ordinance, importance of 424.

O.

Oration of Dr. Whitridge, quoted, 262.
Oratory of Lord Bolingbroke, 91; none among the Chinese, 126; of Greece, 495; of Rome, 515.
Oriental Literature, 479—83.
Orphic Sayings, 461.

P.

Painting and Sculpture of the Egyptians, 9, 53.
Periods of Scientific Discovery, 200.
Philosophy in Greece, 498; never naturalized at Rome, 515.
Physical constitution of the Egyptian race, 13; of the negro, 320.
Physiognomy of the Ancient Egyptians, 17.
Physiological peculiarities of females. See Woman.
Poets and Poetry of America, 268; Transcendental, 466.
President Tyler's Veto of the little Tariff Bill, 429.
Proceedings of the Suffrage Party in Rhode Island improper, 242.
Proceedings of the Charter Party, 248.
Progress of the Difficulties, 240.
Progress of humanity, according to the Transcendentalists, 458.
Psyche. See Cupid.
Publication of Vico's Scienza Nuova, 407.

Q.

Queen Elizabeth, 293.

R.

Religious Reform contemplated by Northern Philosophers, 137.
Religion, Language, and Laws the great bonds of society, 408.
Removal of Mr. Bacon from the consulship at Nassau, 67.
Repulse of Gen. Ross, 362.
Rhode Island Affairs, 232—64; differences of polity in the American Colonies before the American Revolution, 233; Charter of Rhode Island, ib.; causes of difficulty, 234; first steps taken by the citizens, 239; progress of the difficulties, 240; statement submitted to the President, 241; proceedings of the Suffrage Party improper, 242; the Charter of Rhode Island, its constitution, 246; proceedings of the Charter Party, 248; course proposed by the President, 251; Gov. Dorr and Gov. King, 253; the right of Free Suffrage discussed, 254; Historical Collections of Rhode Island, 260; Roger Williams first person to maintain the doctrine of universal toleration, ib.; the government of Rhode Island declared by the Assembly to be Democratical, 261; Rhode Island said to have struck the first blow in the Revolution, 262; Dr. Whitridge's Oration before the New-England Society quoted, ib.

Rights, 396, 529.
Right of Search, 177.
Right of Suffrage, 254, 398.
Roman Jurisprudence, 410; literature, 503—17; satire, 511; historians, 512; philosophy, 515.
Rowley, Admiral, his testimony respecting negro slavery, 347.

S.

Schlegel's History of Literature, 472—517: general excellence of the work, 472; imperfection of historical works 473; slight acquaintance with the modern historical school of France, ib.; use and importance of the History of Literature, 474; three modes of stndying it, 477; early history of Literature, 478—517; Oriental Literature, 479—83; Literature of Greece, 483—502; era and influence of the Homeric Poems, 489; Attic Tragedy, 491; Greek Lyric Poetry, ib.; Greek Comedy, 493; Greek Historians, 495; Orators, ib.; the Sophists, 497; Plato and Aristotle, 500; Roman Literature, 503—17; politics dominant at Rome, 504; no national literature, 506; earliest literature of the Romans, 507; Lucretius, 509; Roman satire, 511; Historians, 512; Cæsar, 515; philosophy never naturalized at Rome, ib.; Cicero and Greek Oratory, ib.
Science of Antiquity, 206.
Sears' Bible Biography, 532.
Sketch of the West Roxbury Community, 455.
Social Evenings, by Miss Mary E. Lee, 531.
South-Carolina rich in materials for romance, 532.
Southern Farmer and Market Gardener, 275.
Southern Law Schools, 419.
Southey, Caroline, Chapters on Church Yards, 532.
Suffrage. See Rights, Rhode Island.

T.

Tariff, the late, 423—36: tendency of the Tariff laws, 423: importance of the Nullification Ordinance, 424; the Compromise Bill, 425; President Tyler's veto, 429; Mr. Clay the candidate of the Tariff party, for the Presidency, 430; Mr. Marshall's letter, 432; Mr. Clay and Mr. Calhoun contrasted, 434.
Tendency of the Fine Arts, 524.
Texas. See Mexico.
Thorvaldsen and Chantrey, 523.
Transcendentalism, 437—71: views of the Transcendentalists, 437; contemplate religious rather than philosophical reform, 440; the object and nature of religion according to them, 441; sense of the beautiful, 442; Transcendentalism Pantheistic, 444; Innate Ideas, 445; existence of God, 448; transcendentalism leads to scepticism, 451; to atheism, 453; sketch of the West Roxbury Community, 455; progress of humanity, 458; Orphic Sayings, 461; Transcendental Poetry, 466; doctrine of correspondence, 469; spirit of the age, ib.
Travels of Dr. Mott, 187—93.
Treatment of the dead among the Egyptians, 38.
Truth never unmixed with error, 204.

V.

Vico, Life, Writings and Genius, 404—16; Guizot, 404; Vico's birth and parentage, 405; his opposition to the Carlesians, 406; publication of the Scienza Nuoza, 407; scope of the work, ib.; Religion, Language and Laws, the bonds of society, 408; individualization of antiquity, 408; institution of Religion, 409; Roman Jurisprudence, 410; connection of Italy with Greece, 412; institution of marriage, 413; interment of the dead, 414.

W.

Webster's, Daniel, distinction between the demand of the criminal and the demand of indemnity, 62.
Whewell's History and Philosophy of the inductive sciences, 193—231: intellectual character of the present day, 193; prospect of a general intellecutual reform, 194; want of a philosophical history of humanity, 196; object of Professor Whewell's works, 199; the three periods of scientific discovery, 200; unacknowledged obligations to V. Cousin, 203—212; truth always alloyed with error, 204; division of Whewell's History of the Inductive Sciences, 206; ancient science, ib.; Franklin's discovery anticipated, 207; protest against metaphysics, 210; importance of the aphoristic mode of treating science, 211; Whewell's Psychological views confuted, 213; a certain degree of scepticism desirable, 216; impossibility of explaining the processes of the mind, 218; necessity, universality, &c. incomprehensible terms, 220; all knowledge derived from experience, 223; reasoning by final causes fallacious, 227.

Woman physiologically considered, 276—311; examination of Mr. Walker's comparison of the heads of twins of different sexes, 281; effects of difference of sex in morals, 289; Queen Elizabeth, 293; marriage, 299; divorce, 301; matrimonial slavery, 305.

Z.

Zanoni. See Bulwer.